A LOOK at the League table suggests that today's game should offer us a good chance of picking up three home points. But without being accused of stating the obvious I want to make it clear that I believe there are no easy games.

And this one will be no easier for us than if we were facing a team from the top of the League.

I'm determined to see us win because we've got to get one back on Swansea after our defeat down there back in September.

But I know John Bond's side will make it very difficult indeed for us.

They'll be in a pretty good frame of mind after getting a good result last Saturday when they beat Brentford 3-2 and I know for a fact that we are going to have to match them in every department today and hopefully get the better of them to take the points.

John Bond has seen enough of us to know his side is going to have a tough game on their hands so in welcoming our visitors from Wales I'm looking forward to a good afternoon's entertainment.

Congratulations go out today to Warren Joyce who last week picked up the vote as "Young Player of the Month" of January in the North West under the Robinson's Barley Water award scheme.

It's nice for Warren and for the club. An award he fully deserves.

And while the attention is on the younger players here at Burnden Park I'd like to say that I happen to think there are one or two others who should be in the running for a similar honour.

Simon Farnworth has come on in leaps and bounds and is looking a really good 'keeper these days while Jimmy Phillips continues to show a lot of promise as he develops in the senior side.

This afternoon I would like to say a big Thank You to everyone who has taken the trouble to pass on to me their congratulations and messages of best wishes following my recent appointment.

I've been knocked out by their kind words and I'd like to put on record my appreciation to all of you for what you've either said to me or written in your letters.

SWANSEA CITY

SWANSEA REVIVAL RAISES HOPES

by Tony Pullein

Swansea City, the club that created the fastest-ever rise from the Fourth to the First Division, are now in grave danger of equalling the record for the quickest return. But the Swans have by no means given up hope of survival as a Third Division club and, since the arrival of new manager John Bond, there has been a marked improvement in defence and they have collected some very valuable points from recent away games.

Under the inspiration of John Toshack, Swansea City rose from the Fourth Division in 1978 to take their place in Division One three years later. But, if they are relegated this year, they will equal Bristol City's disaster of suffering three consecutive relegations.

Relegation from the First Division in 1983 proved catastrophic. Players were on First Division contracts but gates were dropping and the club found itself in very serious financial trouble. Most of their international players had to be sold to reduce the wages bill and to raise such money as could be got in transfer fees.

The Swans were left virtually with youth-team players, plus a few experienced survivors, and further relegation from Division Two followed at the end of last season.

When Mr Bond took over in December, he made it his business to sign experienced players in all departments and he was able to persuade their clubs to part with them on free-transfers. So the Swans now have Scotland international Derek Parlane spearheading their attack with Welsh international Paul Price steadying things in the middle of the defence. And Ray McHale, a much travelled midfield player, has brought much-needed stability in the middle of the field.

Of the remaining 13 players currently in the senior squad, 12 are products of the club's youth scheme. The exception is forward Steve Mardenborough, signed from Wolves last summer.

Though the Swansea contingent includes experienced men like Wyndham Evans, Nigel Stevenson, Chris Marustik and Jimmy Loveridge, there is still plenty of youth in the squad.

In the past Swansea gained a reputation for producing many great Welsh internationals — John Charles, Ivor Allchurch, Trevor Ford, Roy Paul, Terry Medwin, Cliff Jones and many more — so there is no reason why some of the present generation of young players should not go on to emulate them.

Older Swansea fans used to complain when the club sold most of its best players, and never managed to make it to the First Division themselves. Things changed later and, when the Swans did eventually make it to the top in 1981, their team included many players imported from rival clubs.

At one point during their debut season, the Swans went to the top of the First Division and they eventually finished in sixth place. Things started to go wrong after that and, in 1983, Swansea finished 21st, returning to the Second Division. Last season they ended up 21st in Division Two, so it was back to the Third Division.

Now the Swans are struggling to escape the bottom four places in Division Three but, after picking up very difficult points in their last two away games at Bradford City (1-1) and Gillingham (1-1) there is now real hope that they can escape a further drop in status.

Earlier on the Swans scored away victories at Bournemouth (2-1) and Cambridge (2-0) and drew at Bristol City (2-2) and Burnley (1-1).

They have been beaten in away League matches at Millwall (0-2), Brentford (0-3), Newport (0-2), Hull City (1-4), Preston (2-3), Doncaster (1-4), Bristol Rovers (2-4), Lincoln (0-1) and York City (0-1).

Swansea received another serious blow to confidence when they were knocked out in the first round of the F.A. Cup by non-League Bognor Regis Town, who had never previously beaten a Football League club. Swansea were held to 1-1 at The Vetch, then lost the replay 1-3.

They were also dismissed in the first round of the Milk Cup, losing in both legs to Walsall — 0-2 at The Vetch, 1-3 at Fellows Park.

If Swansea can hold their Third Division place this season then there is hope that they will be able to effect a recovery next term. Many of the youngsters who were thrown into the side before their time have now gained valuable experience and, given the boost to confidence so badly needed, could form the backbone of a new and successful Swansea side for the future.

MIKE HUGHES (Goalkeeper). Mike served his apprenticeship at The Vetch Field and won his chance in their League eleven last season. He is a Wales' youth international.

CHRIS MARUSTIK (Defender). Chris usually plays in defence but has also turned out in midfield this season. Another former Swans' apprentice, he was first introduced to League football in 1979. After winning Wales under-21 caps, Chris played on six occasions in the full international side.

WYNDHAM EVANS (Defender). Wyndham was once on Stoke City's books but he made his League debut for Swansea in 1971. Now their longest-serving player, Wyndham hopes to celebrate his 400th League appearance within the next couple of months.

PAUL PRICE (Defender). Paul joined Swansea last month after a spell with Minnesota Kicks. He began his League career with Luton in 1973 and made well over 200 appearances for the Hatters before moving on to Tottenham for £250,000 in 1981. Unfortunately, he was struck by injuries and didn't enjoy the best of luck at White Hart Lane. Paul has been capped by Wales on 25 occasions.

DUDLEY LEWIS (Defender). Dudley is a local lad who completed his apprenticeship with the club and came through for his League debut in 1980/81. He has been capped by the Wales under-21s on three occasions.

NIGEL STEVENSON (Defender). Nigel is another local who served his apprenticeship at The Vetch. He made his League debut in 1976 and, after gaining Wales under-21 honours, played for the full Wales team on four occasions.

PAT McQUILLAN (Defender). Pat served his apprenticeship with the Swans but left the club in 1982 to join Pembroke Borough. But he was re-signed in December 1983 and won an immediate place in the club's League eleven.

DAVID HOUGH (Defender). David is a former Wales youth international. He was given a couple of outings in the Swans' Second Division side towards the end of last season.

RAY McHALE (Midfield). Ray, signed recently from Sheffield United, is one of the most experienced midfield players in the business. He started his career with Chesterfield, leading their scoring list with 12 goals in only his second season in 1972/73. He was transferred to Halifax in 1974 and was a top marksman with them, too, netting 16 times in 1975/76. He moved on to Swindon the following season, remaining until signing for Brighton in 1980. He stayed at the Goldstone Ground for only a matter of weeks before joining Barnsley in a £60,000 deal. Sheffield United signed him in 1982.

PHIL WILLIAMS (Midfield). Phil was still an apprentice

when he was introduced to the Swans' League team towards the end of last season.

GARY RICHARDS (Midfield). Yet another ex-Swansea apprentice, Gary got his first run in the senior side in 1981/82 and has been a regular member of the squad this season. He is a Welsh youth international.

COLIN PASCOE (Midfield). Another of many local players in the side, Colin followed Wales youth international honours by playing four times for the under-21 side. He now also has two full international caps. Colin was introduced to the Swansea side two seasons ago, earning a regular place last term.

DEREK PARLANE (Forward). Derek was signed by manager John Bond from his old club Manchester City a few weeks ago. Once an amateur with the famous Queen's Park club of Glasgow, Derek turned professional with Rangers and was in winning sides in each of the Scottish League Championship, the Scottish Cup and the Scottish League Cup with the Ibrox side. He was on four occasions top scorer for Rangers before moving on to Leeds for £200,000 in 1980. After a couple of years he found himself forgotten in Leeds' reserves but Manchester City signed him in 1983 and he was their top scorer with 19 goals last season.

DEAN SAUNDERS (Forward). One more Swansea-born player in the Swans' side, Dean successfully completed his apprenticeship and made his League debut at Charlton in October 1983.

STEVE MARDENBOROUGH (Forward). Steve was a reserve player with Coventry City but got his chance in League soccer after signing for Wolves in 1983. He also played on loan with Cambridge last season and linked up with Swansea in the summer.

JIMMY LOVERIDGE (Forward). Jimmy served his apprenticeship with the Swans, making his first League appearance in 1979/80. He is a Wales under-21 international.

In Retrospect

Bolton face Swansea for the 14th time in the football league today with the Welshmen having won six games to the Wanderers five of the previous games.

The first league game between the two sides took place here at Burnden in December 1933 with Bolton winning 2-1 to keep up the pressure on the second division leaders. G. T. Taylor made his debut for Bolton in this game after his £3500 transfer from Notts County, setting up a goal for Ray Westwood with Jack Rimmer getting the other. The return game ended in a scoreless draw and the Wanderers eventually finished third, one point behind promoted sides Preston and Grimsby.

The following season the Wanderers won promotion but the honours were even in the two games with Swansea. A Billy Cook goal won the points for Bolton at Burnden on Good Friday but the Swans gained revenge on Easter Monday with a 2-1 win.

Our paths didn't cross again until season 1964/65, again in the second division, with both clubs winning their respective home game although Swansea were relegated to the third division and it was in that league that the next meeting took place. In October 1971 a scoreless game resulted at Burnden but the return at the Vetch Field the following February was full of incident with the Swans winning 3-2. John Byrom gave Bolton the lead after 12 minutes from a Garry Jones corner and Swansea equalised two minutes into first half injury time through Clive Slattery.

Swansea took the lead early into the second half when Geoff Thomas converted a penalty awarded for pushing by Peter Nicholson. In the 60th minute Swansea were awarded another penalty after Paul Jones had tripped David Gwyther. Thomas stepped up again to convert the kick but two minutes later Bolton were down to ten men when full back Henry Mowbray was sent off for flooring Keith Evans. Roy Greaves headed home a Don McAllister free kick a minute from time but it was too late to stage a recovery.

Season 1972/73 saw the Wanderers complete the double as they went on to win the third division championship and Swansea suffered relegation. Two goals from John Byrom and one from Garry Jones won the game by 3-0 at Burnden whilst John Byrom and a couple from Neil Whatmore, on his league debut saw Bolton home by 3-2 in Wales. City's goals came from a Geoff Thomas penalty and a Roy Greaves own goal.

The last game between the two sides here at Burnden was a second division fixture in September 1980 when Swansea romped home by 4-1. Two mistakes by keeper Dennis Peacock gave Leighton James and Alan Waddle the opening goals for City and Waddle increased their lead just before half time. Neil Robinson grabbed their fourth and it was left to Neil Whatmore to score a consolation goal for a humiliated Bolton before a 9,419 gate. The two sides for that game were: Bolton; Peacock, Clement, Burke, Cantello, Gowling, Walsh, Nowak, Whatmore, Wilson, Kidd, Hoggan, Sub Nicholson.

Swansea: Stewart, Attley, Hadziabdic, Mahoney, Stevenson, Phillips, Giles, Waddle, L. James, Charles, Robinson Sub Craig.

Swansea completed the double the following February with a 3-0 home win with Leighton James snatching a hat trick, two from the penalty spot, as the Welshmen eventually won promotion to the first division for the first time in their history.

Earlier this season at the Vetch Field the Wanderers lost 2-1 and found themselves at the foot of the table. Colin Pascoe opened the scoring for City after 7 minutes, shooting home a rebound that had struck a post. George Oghani equalised in the 33rd minute but Steve Mardenborough scored what turned out to be the winner two minutes later.

In cup football the Wanderers have the edge, winning the 1926 FA Cup semi final at White Hart Lane 3-0 with two goals from Joe Smith, one a penalty and Baggett. In the League Cup the Wanderers won a 4th round tie 5-1 at Burnden after a 1-1 draw at Swansea.

Our league record against today's visitors reads

Home	6	4	1	1	9	6
Away	7	1	1	5	7	14
Total	13	5	2	6	16	20

Down Memory Lane

15 years ago 11th February 1970. Charlie Hurley, Arthur Marsh and Ian Seddon returned to the side for the visit of Middlesbrough to Burnden. The North Easterners had gone 17 games without defeat whilst the Wanderers were in 18th position despite suffering only one defeat in the last eight games.

On a snow covered pitch Roger Hunt grabbed his first goal for the club after 43 minutes and seconds before half time Charlie Hurley increased the Wanderers lead. Boro came back into the game when after 55 minutes Joe Laidlaw shot home but Bolton held on to win 2-1.

Warwick Rimmer was fined £25 by a disciplinary Committee after three bookings but 'got away' without a ban.

14th February 1970. An unchanged Bolton team visited 'bogey' side Millwall and found themselves a goal down after only three minutes, a shot from Harry Cripps hitting John Ritson on the leg before bouncing past Alan Boswell. It was Cripps who netted the Londoners second goal just before half time from a Keith Weller corner, the game ending in a 2-0 win for Millwall.

10 years ago 8th February 1975. Roy Greaves returned to the Bolton side after injury and helped guide his side to a fine 3-2 win at Nottingham Forest. Miah Dennehy had put Forest one up after only six minutes when he had already seen his side have four shots cleared off the line!

John Byrom equalised with his 100th goal for Bolton and seven minutes from half time put them into the lead with a left foot shot that flashed past keeper John Middleton. Hugh Curran grabbed Boltons third after being set up by Byrom and Dennehy pulled one back for Forest ten minutes from the end with a consolation goal.

Mike Walsh made his league debut as substitute coming on for Tony Dunne, whilst Don McAllister played his last game in a Bolton shirt as he joined Spurs for £80,000 the following week.

15th February 1975 League cup finalists Norwich City attracted a crowd of 15,506 to Burnden Park for a game that ended scoreless. Kevin Keelan in the City goal was on top form although the best chance of the game fell to Ted McDougall who shot straight into the hands of Barry Siddall when clear.

5 years ago 16th February 1980. Bolton faced Arsenal at Burnden in a 5th round FA Cup tie and went a goal down against the run of play after 16 minutes when Frank Stapleton slipped the ball home. Sam Allardyce equalised eight minutes later with a tremendous header, rising above keeper Pat Jennings and Willie Young. The side was unchanged for the replay on 19th February 1980, but the Wanderers were outplayed and crashed 3-0. Alan Sunderland put the Gunners one up in only the first minute and he scored their second after a poor back pass by Roy Greaves who was playing his last game for Bolton. Frank Stapleton scored Arsenal's third five minutes from time after Jim McDonagh had produced a string of spectacular saves.

23rd February 1980. The Wanderers again visited Arsenal this time for a first division fixture and although beaten 2-0 they regained much of the pride lost earlier in the week. Manager Stan Anderson made six changes to the side, giving Phil Wilson his debut in midfield. Arsenal's goals came from Willie Young and Frank Stapleton although both Tad Nowak and Neil Whatmore missed good chances for Bolton.

Clean sheet at Crewe

The scoreless game at Crewe in the Freight Rover Trophy gave the Wanderers their first clean sheet in a competitive game away from home this season. It was in fact a year to the day that the defence last held out in a 1-0 third division win at Southend United.

30th January 1985 Bolton Res 2 Oldham Athletic Res 2

The Wanderers came back twice to take a point from high riding Oldham and could have in fact won the game in the final minute when Wayne Foster hit the post from 25 yards with an open goal at his mercy.

Oldham took the lead from the penalty spot after 26 minutes when Julian Darby tripped trialist Levi Edwards and Derrick Parker sent John Platt the wrong way.

Paul Lodge equalised in the 32nd minute with a tremendous left foot shot from 20 yards after a fine run by Simon Rudge but Oldham again grabbed the lead on the stroke of half time through Derrick Parker whose swerving shot found the roof of the net.

Three minutes from time Bolton equalised when Simon Rudge converted a penalty awarded after Roger Walker had been fouled by centre half Alec Jones and then came the chance which would have given the Wanderers their first home win for almost three months but it would have been an injustice to a fine Oldham performance.

Team: Platt, Darby, Shepherd, Booth, Valentine, Lodge, Walker, Saunders, Foster, Rudge, Whitlow, Sub Allen for Shepherd.

6th February 1985 Bolton Res 3 Middlesbrough Res 1

A youthful Wanderers reserve side were too much for a Middlesbrough team that only came into the game in the latter stages. Steve Saunders had the chance to open the scoring after only two minutes when he broke clear but was caught in two minds and Murphy in the Boro goal saved easily.

Bolton took the lead in the 13th minute with a spectacular goal from Wayne Foster who thundered the ball into the net from the edge of the penalty area after a clever pass from Julian Darby.

Bolton's second goal came on the hour when a hard and low cross from Paul Booth was turned into his own net by full back Corden. Two minutes later Steve Saunders made it three with a shot on the turn from eight yards out.

Middlesbrough pulled a goal back in the 84th minute when a low shot from Kernaghan went under Platt's diving body but the Wanderers had no trouble in holding out for a deserved victory.

Team: Platt, Darby, Whitlow, Shepherd, Howard, Winstanley, Booth, Saunders, Foster, Rudge, Allen Sub Hardwick for Foster.

JULIAN DARBY

As Britain shivered under the icy grip of this winter's arctic freeze-up football once more found itself the victim of the Siberian conditions.

With grounds snowbound, games postponed and postponed again, and again, the chink of silver at the turnstiles gate was silenced and for those clubs already on the breadline, the frozen cash flow proved yet another distinct threat towards their future.

Reliant on directors dipping their hands into their pockets to cover the wage bill and the goodwill of the banks, one League Club official told me; "At least it gives us a valid reason for not paying the bills."

The clubs will muddle through, they always do. But in an industry where cash is the biggest problem it seems really bad management to persevere with a formula that will literally cost the game millions of pounds.

No wonder the bank managers remain so considerate. They are the only ones cashing in as clubs increase their overdrafts and suffer the high interest charges.

But it is the long term effect that is so frightening. With a backlog of fixtures to re-arrange it is inevitable that teams are forced to play two maybe even three times a week to get through their programme in the allotted time. Now in this period of austerity that is just not on for the majority of fans.

With the dole queue bigger than that filing into the 92 League grounds every week people just can't afford to watch football that often. The net result is a fall in the overall attendances for the season, a fall that could so easily be avoided.

How a business that is as impoverished as that of League football can afford to turn custom away year after year as it does is quite beyond me . . . Yet the game does not seem to have learnt from 97-years of experience.

Every summer when the new season's fixtures are published, club administrators quickly turn their eye to the Saturday before Christmas, hoping that they are scheduled to play away on that notoriously bad day for crowds. Why? If it is so bad for business why not leave it as a free date in the first place! It seems suicidal to try and promote something at a time when the public are otherwise occupied.

It's the same with the ravages of winter. Football could always overcome the cold shivers of winter by closing down during January and February, making the hard winter months the game's closed season.

A January shut down makes economic sense but there is more to it than that. "I am strictly a traditionalist at heart," says former England and Manchester United winger Steve Coppel. "I certainly would not advocate a change to summer soccer.

"In my book summer is for cricketers and should be left to them. Ours is a winter sport and as such we have to accept the different and at times difficult climatic conditions."

The Crystal Palace manager adds: "It is nice to get out on a nice crisp winter night with a cup of hot Bovril or Oxo to warm you as you cheer on your favourite team . . . That represents the true spirit of the game to me."

Football it seems is faced with a tricky conundrum. Does it follow the course for posterity or prosperity?

Football's Frozen Assets

By Colin Benson

"PLAY IT AGAIN" was the Football Association's directive when little Burton Albion won their appeal to have their FA Cup Third Round tie with Leicester City replayed.

The Northern Premier League side, beaten 6-1 by their First Division opponents at Derby County's Baseball Ground, had pressed for the FA hearing after their goalkeeper Paul Evans had been felled by a lump of wood thrown from the terraces.

The score was 1-1 when Evans was concussed and Burton claimed that the incident played a crucial part in their heavy defeat.

The commission agreed and after ordering a replay behind locked doors, the FA Cup committee chairman Lionel Smart said: "Perhaps this will show people that unruly crowds will not be allowed to influence results."

Ted Croker the FA Secretary added: "The decision was taken after a very great deal of consideration.

"Particular emphasis was made on avoiding further crowd problems. That was why it was decided to play at an empty ground with an afternoon kick-off.

"The clear message is that the FA will not draw back from actions strong enough to prove that crowd trouble must not pay."

Perhaps UEFA's ruling that Celtic should replay their European tie with Rapid Vienna influenced the thinking on insisting that the re-match be played behind closed doors. . . . The Celtic replay — staged at Old Trafford — was further marred by even more serious spectator hooliganism than that seen at Celtic Park in the first instance.

Even so, one can't help wondering who is the real winner in cases like these.

WHO REALLY WINS?

By John Nolan

"Unfair" claims Leicester boss Gordon Milne.

Celtic certainly weren't and although the eventual outcome of Burton Albion's replay with Leicester was a slender 1-0 victory to the First Division side, one can hardly say that Leicester or Burton have benefitted from the experience.

That game, the first F.A. Cup tie since 1974, to be replayed because of crowd-trouble — and then Newcastle met Nottingham Forest in front of the fans — was condemned by Leicester City boss Gordon Milne who called for the F.A. to abandon their ideas on playing games behind closed doors.

Urged Milne: "It is unfair to ask teams to play in that environment and I wouldn't like to think that any professional side will be asked to do it again."

"The crowd is part of the game and you can't perform without them. They go together. It was an unreal situation out there."

There has been one previous F.A. Cup tie played behind the ghostly silence of closed doors. That between Bradford City and Norwich City, which was replayed at Lincoln in 1915, only the reason then was to discourage absenteeism from the local wartime munitions factories.

Whether the louts will have learned a lesson from this latest experience is doubtful. If they really cared about the game and the teams they supposedly 'support' then they would not act so criminally in the first place.

The Football Association has done what it can to stop mob rule influencing the outcome of matches and they have made it clear that their decision to order the Burton Leicester tie to be replayed should not be regarded as a precedent.

HOWARD GAYLE

But still Howard was unable to make his mark at Anfield and further loan spells followed at Birmingham City and Newcastle United before he was transferred to Birmingham in June 1983 and established himself as a regular in the Blues team last season.

Relegation however meant that Birmingham had to trim their assets and Howard was sold to Sunderland last summer for £60,000. There he has fitted nicely into the Roker team providing pace and width to the attack.

Capped by England at Under-21 level last season — as an over age player — he has the gifts to really make a big name in League football, the ball is in his court.

LIKE a streak of lightning flashing from above, Howard Gayle can strike with deadly effect. He has pace and likes to run the ball at defenders, a quality all too rare on the English football scene these days.

There is no doubt that he has the ability to be a great player the biggest obstacle to his success being his own temperament which is particularly fiery.

Last season his career with Birmingham City was tarnished by 11 bookings which overshadowed his undoubted skill as a forward. One particular incident last April, involving Nottingham Forest defender Paul Hart, had manager Brian Clough leaping out of his seat to declare: "The lad has too much talent to be doing the type of things he is on a football field."

Born in Liverpool, his ability as a schoolboy player soon came under the Anfield microscope and he was snapped up upon leaving school.

While Kenny Dalglish, Phil Thompson, Ray Kennedy, Steve Heighway and company were storming to the Football League Championship title in the season of 1978-79, Howard Gayle was helping the reserves clinch the Central League by a clear nine points over second placed Nottingham Forest.

Howard was the promising new hot-shot in the Anfield armoury, blasting 17 goals in that campaign, in which his team mates were Sammy Lee, Kevin Sheedy — now with Everton — David Fairclough, Emlyn Hughes and David Johnson.

Howard's talent was left simmering however, the Liverpool team packed with international celebrities proving a difficult side to break into. Consequently he was loaned out to Fulham to gain further experience and made his Football League debut for them on January 12th 1980, at Preston.

The youngster played in Fulham's next 13 games before returning to Merseyside in April.

It was no surprise when he made his Liverpool League debut, as a substitute, at Manchester City in October 1980 and when he earned his first full game debut the following April, at Tottenham, it proved a dream beginning.

The young striker scored to earn Liverpool a 1-1 draw and he went on to make two further appearances that season.

Star Profile

A look back at some of the Wanderers past players

In 18 years service with the Wanderers, the name of ROY HARTLE became synonymous with the traditions and character of this respected club.

But Hartle the player was to become Hartle the Town Councillor, Hartle the administrator. And the soccer traditionalist became one of the first to view the rise in popularity of the sport in the United States.

Today our YESTERDAY'S HEROES feature spotlights the career of the Wanderers full-back who hailed from Birmingham.

BOLTON'S two trips to Wembley in the space of five years in the Fifties brought a bitter-sweet experience for Roy Hartle.

Nat Lofthouse and Dougie Holden tasted defeat in 1953 only to return in 1958 to savour the delights of lifting the FA Cup.

For Hartle it was different. He'd signed for Wanderers in 1952 and despite playing in every round of the Cup the following year he was left out for the final. In fact he didn't play another first team game for two seasons.

So his part in the 1958 success and his ultimate recognition as one of the finest English full-backs never to win a cap proved a point!

Hartle returned to the side as a regular in 1955 and for the next 10 seasons missed only 20 games.

In all he made 446 League appearances for the Wanderers, captained the side and developed an affinity for the town that prompted him to successfully run for election to the Borough Council.

And for the man who, as a youngster, had hated the prospect of coming north it says a lot for the impact he made on the club and the area that he is still around and a familiar face in the North West.

An uncompromising tackler on the field, Hartle was one of football's great talkers when he was off the field.

He worked for his FA coaching badge, spent years on the executive of the Professional Footballers Association and had a year on the American scene as coach of New York Generals which taught him a lot about the administrative and promotional sides of the game.

Respected in the game for his whole-hearted play and his work with the PFA, Hartle was a one-club man and his service to the Wanderers was rewarded in 1969 when his Testimonial Match at Burnden attracted a crowd of 8,478 fans who saw Stanley Matthews and George Eastham star in a celebrity game.

Work on his Testimonial forced Hartle, in fact, to turn down offers of jobs as chief coach at Stoke and the manager's job at Grimsby Town. But he gave Bury the benefit of his talents as Chief Scout for a spell, proving a shrewd judge of a player.

Hartle's playing career with Wanderers ended in 1966 when he was given a free transfer. He later had a spell as a part-timer with Buxton in the Cheshire League.

That was 18 years after being first spotted by a Bolton scout. Aston Villa and Birmingham had kept their eyes on him. But Hartle signed Amateur forms for the Wanderers at the age of 16 — despite having misgivings about leaving the Midlands.

While doing his National Service as a gunner stationed at Oswestry, Hartle played alongside professionals for the first time and subsequently developed as an accomplished player.

In the end Wolves moved in with an offer, but Hartle remained loyal to Bolton, signed professional forms and never looked back.

● Hartle the "Talker" — in familiar off the field pose.
